

American Heart Association.

OUR MISSION: Save Lives

The American Heart Association is recognized as the leader in resuscitation science and education, and in the effort to improve cardiovascular health in the United States.

INDEPENDENT RESEARCH:

“The American Heart Association sets the highest standard in CPR and resuscitation science, education, and training.”

The American Heart Association is the only US organization that’s part of ILCOR and the sole author of the official AHA Guidelines for CPR and ECC.

*International Liaison Committee on Resuscitation

American Heart Association Resuscitation Courses

- ✓ Rigorous program development procedures
- ✓ Content and developmental expertise
- ✓ Highest level of proven learning techniques
- ✓ 2018 award-winning ACLS and ACLS EP

AHA Training Centers

are held to high-quality standards for Instructors and administration of training

Healthcare organizations using More than 90% American Heart Association evidence-based resuscitation training programs to meet the requirements of The Joint Commission

Extensive resuscitation and patient care education for first responders and healthcare professionals

Basic Life Support
BLS

Advanced Cardiovascular Life Support
ACLS

Pediatric Emergency Assessment, Recognition & Stabilization
PEARS

Pediatric Advanced Life Support
PALS

Industry Standard • LEGACY Expertise • Global Authority
RESUSCITATION • CPR & ECC
Evidence-based • TRUSTED Guidelines • GOVERNANCE SCIENCE • Accredited Quality • Innovation
EDUCATION
Commitment
Research

LIFE SAVING MISSION

Access more information about the American Heart Association’s BLS, ACLS, PALS and PEARS® now at cpr.heart.org